TROOPS PATROL KATHMANDU STREETS TO RESTORE ORDER; CURFEW TO CURB POSSIBLE VIOLENCE

Ex-chief justice to head interim Nepal govt

YUBARAJ GHIMIRE
New Delhi, September 10

AS HIS TROOPS patrolled the streets of Kathmandu to restore order after two days of violent protests triggered the fall of the KP Sharma Oli government, Nepal Army chief General Ashok Raj Sigdel Wednesday appeared to have succeeded in persuading Sushila Karki, former Chief Justice of Nepal, to step in as the interim Chief Executive of the country.

It is learnt that General Sigdel, who held several rounds of talks with groups behind the Gen Z protests and other individuals — he met some together, others separately — drove to Karki's house in Dhapasi around 2 am Wednesday and told her that she would be the most appropriate person to lead the interim government.

Karki was reluctant to take up the offer but agreed after 15 hours when the Gen Z groups made a formal request.

In the several rounds of talks that he held, General Sigdel, it is learnt, sought suggestions on restoring normalcy soonest, a common minimum agenda, and the formation of an interim government as early as Thursday or Friday.

Nepal's first woman Chief Justice, Karki retired in June 2017 in not so happy circumstances. She was placed under suspension after the Nepali Congress registered an impeachment notice in the Parliament Secretariat but did not press it once she retired.

This time, she will have the Nepal Army by her side which will be working with her to deliver a new Constitution within a specified timeframe — the 10-year-old Constitution is now considered defunct.

In March this year, General Sigdel is said to have warned Oli not to arrest former King Gyanendra Shah or place him

Kathmandu airport resumes operations

Nepal's TRIBHUVAN INTERNATIONAL Airport (TIA) has announced that it will resume services from Wednesday evening, 24 hours after closing its operations due to violent anti-government protests. The announcement comes hours after authorities had earlier said the airport would remain closed until further notice.

States in India, step up vigil in border areas

AS NATIONWIDE RESTRICTIVE orders and curfew were imposed in Nepal in view of deadly protests, several states in India launched special cells to assist their residents stranded in the violence-hit country besides stepping up vigil along the border.

Indian Embassy advises caution to Kailash pilgrims

THE INDIAN EMBASSY in Beijing has urged Indian pilgrims who travelled to Mount Kailash in Tibet via private operators via Nepal to exercise caution due to the prevailing situation in Nepal, which has impacted the planned travel arrangements of Indian citizens undertaking Kailash Mansarovar Yatra.

Nationwide restrictive orders imposed

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Kathmandu, September 10

THE NEPAL ARMY on Wednesday imposed nationwide restrictive orders followed by a curfew to quell possible violence under the guise of protests, a day after Prime Minister KP Sharma Oli resigned in the face of massive anti-government demonstrations.

The army, which took control of nationwide security operations from Tuesday night after incidents of arson and vandalism across the country, said the restrictive orders will remain in force until 5:00 pm Wednesday, and then a curfew will be in place until 6 am Thursday.

The Nepalese capital wore a deserted look as soldiers guarded the streets and ordered people to stay at home, a day after protesters set fire to the Parliament, the President's Office, the PM's residence, government buildings, Supreme Court, political parties' offices and homes of senior leaders.

In a statement, the army said the measures were necessitated to curb possible incidents of looting, arson, and other destructive activities

"under the guise of agitation". The army warned that any form of demonstrations, vandalism, arson, or attacks on individuals and property during the restrictive period would be treated as criminal acts and dealt with accordingly.

"There are also possible threats of rape and violent attacks against individuals," the statement said. "Keeping in view the security situation of the country, restrictive orders and a curfew have been enforced."

The statement clarified that vehicles and personnel engaged in essential services, including ambulances, fire engines, health workers, and security forces, would be permitted to operate during the restrictive orders and curfew.

In a separate statement, the army expressed concern over the actions of certain groups, which are "taking undue advantage of the difficult situation" and causing "severe damage to ordinary citizens and public property." "We have deployed our troops to prevent any untoward incidents, including looting and vandalism," said an officer from the Nepal Army headquarters.

ter Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' sacked Army chief Rookmangud Katawal, replacing him with a junior General.

Katawal resisted the move and the then President, Ram Baran Yadav, vetoed the replacement of the General. Following the fiasco, Prachanda resigned as the Prime Minister.

under House arrest when he appeared to be riding a popularity wave.

With the country now in flames and the Oli government gone, the Nepal Army, for the first time, has stepped in, following a silent consensus among political parties and the Gen Z groups, with twin objectives: first, put out the fire, stop plunder and anarchy, and, second, bring diverse political forces to the dialogue table to decide the polity.

In 2006, as Nepal embarked on a radical political journey to eventually become a secular republic, the Royal Nepal Army became the Nepal Army. But it remained apolitical, accepting political and systemic changes and cooperating with the new political system — in 2008, its supreme commander, the King, was dethroned and monarchy abolished. It acted strongly whenever there were moves to inject party politics into the institution.

In May 2009, Prime Minis-

NASA's Mars rover finds hints of ancient life

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cape Canaveral (US),
September 10

NASA'S MARS ROVER Perseverance has uncovered rocks in a dry river channel that may hold potential signs of ancient microscopic life, scientists reported Wednesday. They stressed that in-depth analysis is needed of the sample gathered there by Perseverance — ideally in labs on Earth — before reaching any conclusions.

Roaming Mars since 2021, the rover cannot directly detect life. Instead, it carries a drill to penetrate rocks and tubes to hold the samples gathered from places judged most suitable for hosting life billions of years ago.

The samples are awaiting retrieval to Earth — an ambitious plan that's on hold as NASA seeks cheaper, quicker options.

Calling it an "exciting discovery," a pair of scientists who were not involved in the study — SETI Institute's Janice Bishop and the University of Massachusetts

NASA's Perseverance Mars rover is seen in a "selfie" that it took over a rock nicknamed "Rochette" Amherst's Mario Parente — were quick to point out that non-biological processes could be responsible.

"That's part of the reason why we can't go so far as to say, A-ha, this is proof positive of life," lead researcher Joel Hurowitz of Stony Brook University told The Associated Press. "All we can say is one of the possible explanations is microbial life, but there could be other ways to make this set of features that we see."

Nearly half of enterprises embedded AI into biz strategies, finds study

NEARLY HALF OF the Indian enterprises surveyed have embedded AI into IT and business strategies, one of the highest adoption rates globally, says a report.

However, weak data foundations and cyber risks could slow India's AI advantage, the report by OpenText and Ponemon Institute stated.

"While Indian enterprises are among the fastest adopters of Generative AI, gaps in information readiness are making it difficult to secure, govern, and scale AI across businesses," the report pointed out.

The report revealed that 48% of Indian enterprises have already embedded AI into IT and business strategies, one of the highest adoption rates globally.

Yet only 15% feel confident in measuring return on investment from securing and managing the information that underpins these initiatives, the survey that covered almost 1,900 senior IT and security leaders worldwide, including 337 in India, stated.
